State Library of Pennsylvania Lunch and Learn Series
And Rare Collections Exhibit:
“Revolutionary Pennsylvania”

"Tories, Terror, and Tea" at the State Library of Pennsylvania!

What: Meet John Moore, author of the Revolutionary Pennsylvania Series, Tories, Terror, and Tea: the first in a series of non-fiction books about Pennsylvania and Pennsylvanians in the Revolutionary War. After the presentation, visit the Rare Collections to see some books about and from the time period!

Where: State Library of Pennsylvania, Green Room, Forum Building, 607 South Drive, Harrisburg, PA

When: Wednesday, September 27 at 12:00 PM and RCL Open House at 12:45 PM after presentation.

About the Author:

Moore’s books reflect a half century of research and travel to historic sites throughout Pennsylvania. His new series is about Pennsylvania during the Revolutionary War. His books are based on 18th and 19th century books, letters, journals, memoirs, and transcripts of official proceedings such as interrogations, depositions and treaties and historical records such as those in the State Library of Pennsylvania’s Rare Collections.

The author is also a professional storyteller who specializes in presenting dramatic episodes from Pennsylvania’s colonial history!

Please visit the Rare Collections room to view a fascinating collection of Revolutionary War era books at the State Library after Mr. Moore’s presentation.

The Revolutionary Pennsylvania and Frontier Pennsylvania series are available for purchase at local bookstores and through Sunbury Press. The State Library has the book to borrow, but not to sell. Mr. Moore will be happy to sign a copy of your book at this event.

For more information contact Ellen Shenk at 783-5969 or ellshenk@pa.gov.